University Master Plan Takes In Building Complex, Parking, Traffic

48 Exhibitors Sign Up for 1964's Dentists Convention

The Loma Linda University School of Dentistry has plans ready for the 1964 alumni-student convention scheduled for February 19-23, 1964, at Loma Linda, according to Viola Lutz, executive secretary for the School of Dentistry Alumni Association.

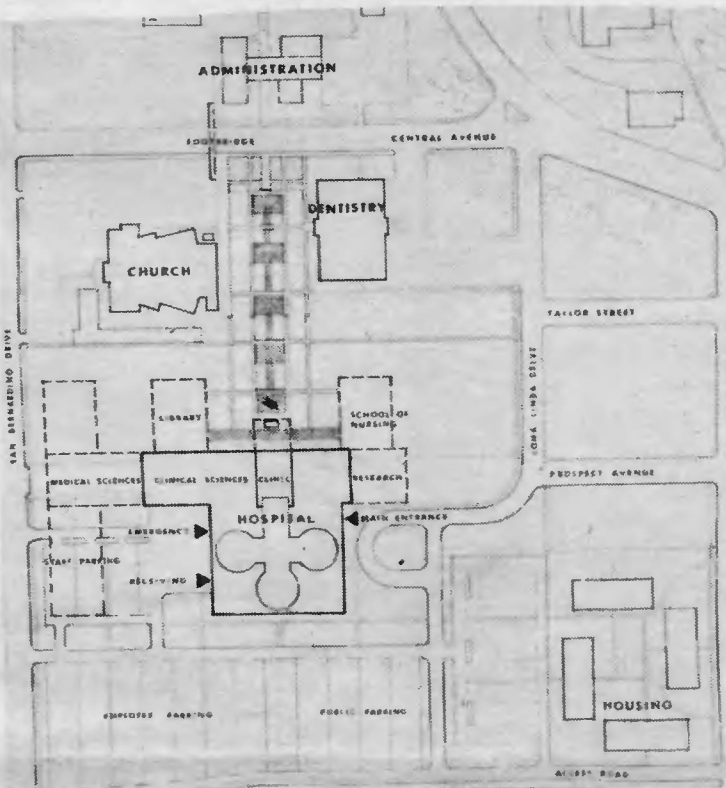

Thus far, 48 commercial exhibitors have signed up for individual booths. The dental students are also preparing their table clinics with various exhibits and visual aids.

This year the convention will have short courses and lectures in various phases of dentistry. Mrs. Lutz said that the convention will use a large circus tent on the parking lot east of the University library.

General chairman of the convention is William Seibly, SD'59. Dr. Seibly works closely with Richard Halburg, senior dental student and student convention chairman.

Copy for SCOPE's Special Event Calendar must be in the editorial offices, Loma Linda campus, not later than Friday before publication. All department heads are urged to adhere to this rule in order to meet the Friday deadline for 50-60 percent of our copy. News stories of special interest to our readers can be turned in as late as Tuesday morning in the week of publication.

A MASTER PLAN FOR THE LOMA LINDA University Medical Center was submitted this week by Architects Heitschmidt and Thompson of Los Angeles in a meeting with the planning committee headed by Robert L. Cone, University vice president for financial affairs. The plan shows the medical center in the lower part of the sketch. See story this page for details. -Sketch by the architects.

A University committee headed by Robert L. Cone, vice president for financial affairs, met the architects for the projected Loma Linda University Medical Center this week to approve a new master plan for the campus.

Preceding the working drawings which are expected late this year, the master plan places buildings and grounds in perspective. It was noticed that a 1200 car parking area has been included in the plans. The parking lots will, according to the master plan, be south, east and west of the medical center.

The plan shows that the medical center will be located directly south of the University Church and the School of Dentistry buildings, south of Prospect Avenue and between San Bernardino and Loma Linda drives.

A horseshoe drive off Prospect Avenue and Loma Linda Drive will form the main entrance to the teaching hospital. Loading docks and emergency entrances will be on the San Bernardino street side.

The architects have included roughly five buildings around the north side of the medical center. Four of these are marked medical sciences, medical library, School of Nursing and research.

In the main building, on the north side, a medical clinic has been planned. A boulevard leads to its entrance from Central Avenue. The master plan shows that a footbridge has been included between the Graduate School and the University Church.

Traffic on Central Avenue has increased and the proposed footbridge would enable students to cross the street with no interference of traffic.

Architects are Heitschmidt and Thompson of Los Angeles with Ellerbe and Company of St. Paul, Minnesota, as consulting architects.

WAITING FOR THE FIRST SOUND of horns playing "Onward, Christian soldiers" were native students from many lands, former missionaries, their wives and children. These were but a few of the many who took part in the colorful and very inspirational mission pageant last Friday night at the Loma Linda University Church. The march toward the pulpit where La Sierra College trumpeters sounded the challenging "Onward" introduced an MV program in which the Pakistan heart team witnessed about their mission. - Staff photo.

After anxiously awaiting the first issues of SCOPE and reading them, I believe this paper has a great deal of potential. I am looking forward to future issues.

Mitchell Ridgeway
St. Cloud, Minnesota

I have read the first few issues of the new Loma Linda University paper with considerable care and with great personal interest. In my judgment the early, quite normal technical imperfections of the publication are exceedingly minor in comparison with the great merit of the publication itself -- its basic concept, its philosophy and its objectives.

As to typographical appearance, one's first impression of SCOPE is highly favorable, despite the technicalities. As to content, one finds the paper gratifyingly informative and refreshingly candid. I am sure that with continued diligence on the part of the newspaper's staff nothing but success can crown their efforts.

I am also sure that such a publication can become the inspiration of a new spirit of pride and participation among the University's many friends, constituents and alumni.

Howard B. Weeks

For those of us who feel that we have a vital part in the Loma Linda University development, and yet are not employed by the University, your paper fills a real need. We now can keep up with progress and happenings on the campus, the reporting of which you do very well.

Nutter Postpones Sabbatical Leave

Robert L. Nutter, PhD, had to decline a senior Fulbright lectureship in Alexandria, Egypt, and postpone his sabbatical leave this fall. An associate professor in the department of microbiology, Dr. Nutter planned to spend his sabbatical leave at the Egyptian university.

Five days before a scheduled departure by plane to Alexandria, difficulties in the Egyptian university arose. The doctor was forced by the circumstances to decline his award.

During the current school year, he is carrying out his usual teaching and research responsibilities in virology on the Loma Linda campus.

OT Students Elect Officers

The senior and junior Occupational Therapy classes of Loma Linda University recently elected their officers. They are:

The senior class: Sara Sullenburger, president; Don Davidson, vice-president; Iann Smith, secretary-treasurer; and Bernita Ortnier, chaplain.

The junior class: Norma Ehlers, president; Kathy Heinrich, vice-president; Dee Engen, secretary-treasurer; and Norma Herron, chaplain.

The Number One Bottleneck

"Loma Linda University is our Number 1 bottleneck." That's what he said! He is a man familiar with the work of Seventh-day Adventists throughout the world. And there was no tone of hostility or judgment in his voice.

"Look at the whole picture," he said, "and you will agree that progress in many lands is impeded because of a shortage of your graduates. Not only do we have trouble securing qualified personnel for pioneer missions—we have difficulty manning established institutions! So we just mark time—waiting and hoping."

Our friend is not the first to comment on the inadequate supply of professional people for the church's far-flung missions program. The shortage exists and it is felt in many quarters. What he failed to see is that Loma Linda University's productivity is directly related to the denominational attitude toward its divinely inspired health emphasis.

If young people are given a vision of Christian service in a health profession, they will demand educational and training facilities to accommodate and qualify them. If church members see the light, they will face up to what it takes in terms of men and means to operate such a training center and move to break the bottleneck by providing the necessary support.

Whither White Memorial ?

The committee which meets Friday to discuss the possibility of White Memorial Hospital and Clinic's passing from University to conference operation faces a decision beset by many complex side issues. Los Angeles campus students, faculty and employees are justifiably impatient to learn what steps will be taken to assure the continuing security of their jobs and educational or professional pursuits.

The University cannot prolong the anxiety and uncertainty that afflict even some of its most loyal supporters in Los Angeles. A decision must be made soon so that the affected members of the University family—comprising over half of the total number—may provide intelligently for the future. There are many indications that of all the alternatives suggested the proposal for local church conference control of the hospital will be the least disruptive to its personnel and community service.

This transaction may be recommended by the committee named by University Trustees to study its advantages from the standpoints of both the church agency and the University. Such a decision, however, must not be made hastily in the face of time factors pressing those responsible.

These Are Volunteers...

The art of living lies in the ability to take that which is common and mundane and make it useful and beautiful.

Members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the University School of Medicine are accomplishing this at the University Thrift Shop at the Los Angeles campus. They convert used clothing, household articles and furniture into life-saving funds.

Their service of love typifies the role of hundreds of volunteers who work to strengthen Loma Linda University's effort to fulfill its worldwide mission.

Evelyn Strachan and her associates, as well as the many others who give their services day after day, inspire us all to greater dedication.

A hasty move which overlooks any of the many aspects of a complex hospital-educational-community relationship would be expected to result in staggering financial loss. Yet more serious than this would be the sacrifice of any of the educational programs dependent upon facilities and staff of White Memorial Hospital and Clinic.

The School of Medicine, for the future of which the greatest concern has been expressed, will almost certainly be provided for in the event of a change to conference control of the hospital. This might be done either by cooperative arrangements between the University and the hospital's new management whereby studies were continued as at present, or by stepped-up affiliations with other hospitals in the area until the medical center at Loma Linda is completed.

But unless provision for continued in-hospital study and experience for students of other University curriculums, such as the undergraduate and graduate programs in nursing, is embodied in an agreement for change of administration, the parties to the contract will have taken a step backward. Affiliations with neighboring hospitals for these students would not provide an acceptable educational program even for a short-term period of transition.

The University—the church—the world cannot afford to deny qualified young persons the educational opportunities which have been developed on the University's Los Angeles campus. Far too many lives of service and inspiration have been invested in these programs for them to be crippled for the sake of financial or administrative expediency.

The representatives of the Trustee-appointed committee should then deliberate upon the complex proposal before them with all the wisdom and practical understanding at their disposal. We pray for their success.

Chiapas Makes Impressions on Volunteers

EVELYN DOMKE, GSN'60, assistant director of the White Memorial Hospital inservice education, writes of "the most wonderful experience of my whole life":

It was my privilege to be among the group of Loma Linda University students, teachers and employees who travelled to Chiapas, Mexico, to conduct the annual three week mission project.

I helped in both the medical and dental clinics. It indeed gave all of us a real glimpse of the tremendous need there for help in both areas.

We saw much tuberculosis, hookworm, internal and external parasitic diseases and malnutrition. There is a real need for teaching nutrition and healthful living practices, including sanitation.

The help rendered these dear people was appreciated, but such help is only temporary, as there was no one to carry the work on after we had left.

Many of us felt that the experience of aiding these people was of more benefit to us than to the natives. We now can better appreciate and comprehend what "mission field needs" really mean. Also, it gave us a first hand view of mission life.

Mission work does pay, and God is truly working in Chiapas as in other parts of the world.

VERNA KUHN, SN'61, was also with the group, enjoying the same experience.

At the present, I am still working at White Memorial Hospital. Inservice education is a comparatively new field in nursing and many avenues are yet to be opened. It remains a real challenge and I do enjoy it here.

News from Nursing Alumni

Notes and news clips give a few glimpses from the many areas in which the School of Nursing graduates are involved.

VERNA DOWER, SN'42, is filling the position as director of nursing service at St. Helena Sanitarium and Hospital. The position was vacated by Francis Fedalen, who is a graduate student in the Loma Linda University School of Nursing.

HAZEL FATTIC, SN'33, writes from the Seventh-day Adventist mission hospital de Ngoma, Rwanda, Africa. She and her physician husband have been filling a vacancy, gratis, for the last eight months. The hospital was without a physician, so they responded to the need.

Hazel assists her husband in surgery, teaches sewing classes and health education. Together they make a real contribution and gain valuable, though at times trying, experiences.

NORMA ELDRIDGE, SN'59-B, has left for an extended furlough. Miss Eldridge was the director of nurses in Okinawa at the Adventist medical center. She is now enrolled in the Loma Linda University Graduate School where she is studying for a master's degree in nursing education. According to the Medical Bulletin of the Far Eastern Division in Singapore, she has left a hollow area in the operation of the medical center there, and her friends are eagerly looking forward to her return.

Miss SALINEE SVETALEKHA, GSN'62, has recently been appointed as director of the Bangkok Sanitarium and Hospital School of Nursing.

MRS. GLENN LUTHER (Violet Foulston), SN'35, spent part of her vacation visiting friends and relatives in British Columbia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, Canada. She, her husband and her daughter Lori, SN'60, flew to Hawaii for ten days of relaxation.

HAZEL YATES, SN'29, of Orlando, Fla., had the privilege of enjoying a family reunion in Loma Linda honoring her mother Mrs. Bertha Wheeler-Fraye.

BARBARA VAN ORNAM, SN '59-B, is at Solusi College, Private Bag, T-189, Bulawayo, South Rhodesia, Africa.

She keeps busy on the mission teaching first aid classes, health and hygiene, while her husband serves as business manager of the college.

MAXINE ATTEBERRY, SN'33, dean of the Loma Linda University School of Nursing, recently gave direction to a four-day workshop at La Sierra College, La Sierra, California.

The theme of the workshop was "Patterns, Perceptions and Progress." It was geared primarily to widen the horizons of the University School of Nursing family. Mazie A. Herin, associate secretary of the medical department of the General Conference, participated in the workshop.

MRS. FRANKIE RAFF, SN'09, who in the past has given mission service in Uruguay, Puerto Rico and Panama, still finds opportunity to give missionary nursing service in her neighborhood. She is nearing the eighty mark.

ANNA E. MERRILL, SN'12, of Battleground, Wash., is active professionally, doing relief work.

ELLA ATKINS, SN'13, has found it necessary following a heart attack to give up her treatment rooms in Anaheim. She opened this service to the public in 1919 and has until recently given direction to this work.

MARGARET STECK, SN'23, of Chehalis, Wash., has had the challenging and satisfying experience of observing first hand the needs in Korea where her physician husband has relieved Dr. Rue.

REBECCA DICK, SN'24, in her letter expresses appreciation for the thorough training she received and which she has used effectively at home and in public health work. She earned her degree in public health nursing and is presently in public health work with the Long Beach school system.

DORA DALBEY, SN'24, is retired but still works part time in physical therapy at St. Helena Sanitarium and Hospital.

MARGUERITE WALLACE, SN '24, of Saratoga, Calif., is no longer active as instructor of anatomy, physiology, pharmacology etc. at Madison College. Neither is she the director of the Mountain Sanitarium and Hospital School of Nursing at Fletcher, N. Caroline, where she served from 1943 through 1948.

She now finds satisfaction in serving as the medical and health secretary in the local church and participates in cooking schools and Red Cross work.

Students to Learn Scuba Swimming

A class in scuba diving and swimming will be offered this fall at the Loma Linda University swimming pool, "Mac" McGirr, swimming pool manager announced this week.

Los Angeles Auxiliary Operates Unique Thrift Shop Near Campus

A corps of energetic women--members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Loma Linda University School of Medicine--is busily converting used clothing, household articles and furniture into funds that will support the University's growing health services here and around the world.

This is taking place in the University Thrift Shop at 1856 East First Street in Los Angeles.

Sparking the rapidly growing operation is Evelyn Strachan, wife of Charles E. Strachan, MD, a School of Medicine faculty member. She is assisted by 25 dedicated women from the auxiliary organization.

A wide range of goods is on display in the surprisingly modern shop.

"It is our purpose," says Mrs. Strachan, "to provide quality merchandise at a modest cost. We believe that many will be pleased to support the project by giving to and buying from the store."

EVELYN STRACHAN MANAGES the University Thrift Shop. She is the wife of Dr. Charles E. Strachan, (School of Medicine faculty member.

"A sale of top quality women's clothing is scheduled for Monday, October 21," states Mrs. Strachan. "The quality and condition of these garment is very high."

According to Mrs. Strachan, the shop needs volunteers to condition, price and sell Thrift Shop merchandise. "And," she continues, "we need more goods. It you are not using it now--you probably never will--let us have it while it is still worth something. We can convert it into acutely needed health services."

"Half of the proceeds go to the Woman's Auxiliary mission program," adds Mrs. Strachan, "while the other half supports local health projects."

The Thrift Shop is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Friday.

THE UNIVERSITY THRIFT SHOP at 1856 East First Street converts unneeded clothing and household articles into cash to support Loma Linda University's health service program.

GOING OVERSEAS ARE DR. AND MRS. GAYLEN JOHNSON (SM'62) and their family of four. They left Loma Linda last week to visit his and her parents in Arkansas and will leave by air from New York for Addis Ababa, Ethiopia about November 1. Dr. Johnson will stay at the Empress Zauditu Memorial Hospital for several months. Following his stay there, he will move on to Gimbi where he will be the only physician and will be there for the rest of his term of five years. The children are Gaylen, 4, Merlin Lee, 2 1/2, Becky, 1, and Steven, 6 months. The physician missionary finished his internship at Loma Linda in July 1963. —Photo by Bob Kreuzinger.

belt used in scuba diving. Open to the University and Academy students here, the class will also include use of fins, mask and snorkel, air tanks and "buddy-breathing."

Mr. McGirr said further information about the class will appear in SCOPE. "All who are interested in the class must be in good health," he added.

The pool now has warm water and the students are urged to make use of the pool. Besides an opportunity to relax, there will be Red Cross swim and stay fit classes for energetic swimmers.

The pool will be open from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday.

Record Class Will Hear Missionary Nurse at Capping Exercises, Sunday

Sixty-two student nurses will obtain their nurse's caps in the Sunday capping exercises in the Loma Linda University Church. According to Mary C. Monteith, administrative assistant, this is the largest class that has ever enrolled in the School of Nursing.

The speaker at the 6:30 p.m. capping ceremony is Miss Norma Eldridge, SN'59, an administrator on furlough from Okinawa, presently a student at the Graduate School working toward a master's degree in nursing. She will speak on the topic "From Your Heart."

WM To Rehears Oratorio

White Memorial Christmas Festival rehearsals for Bach's Christmas Oratorio will begin Friday, October 11, 7:30 p.m. in the choir room. Rehearsals will be October 11, November 1, 8 and 29 and December 6. Sabbath afternoon rehearsals will be October 19 and 26 and November 16 and 23.

THE MOTHER OF TRIPLETS, Mrs. Hazel Turner looks at her new-born babies who were born at the White Memorial Hospital Sunday. Marion Brodie, RN, and nursing assistant Elisa Ascarate hold two of the infants for their first photograph. Father of the children is Mr. Eddie A. Turner of Compton. The triplets are named after three Dodger pitchers: Don Scott for Don Drysdale; Sandy for Sandy Koufax; and Ronald Peter for Ron Perranoski. Delivery room supervisor June Ohashi, RN, reports that all three are "doing really well."

Princess to Tell Community of Dramatic Life Story

The story of a Seventh-day Adventist princess that was told to a 45,000,000 television audience will be presented at Loma Linda, October 18 and 19.

Princess Alice Siwundhla will continue the dramatic story of her life which follows her from a mud hut in Africa to the famous Malamulo Mission and later to the United States where she is a graduate student.

The princess, who is a student at the California State Polytechnic College, will show the film which the Ralph Edwards "This is Your Life" television program presented.

She will also tell of her plans to complete her master's degree in business counseling and guidance and her husband's ambition to complete his doctorate in history. They will return to Africa to lend their influence in consolidating Nigerian independence.

The program, which is sponsored by the Loma Linda Business and Professional Womens Club, will be given Friday, October 18, at 7:45 p.m. in the University Church and on Saturday, October 19 at 7:30 p.m. in Burden Hall.

The royal family has three children, age 5, 7 and 9.

President Signs Medical Bill

A three-year, $236,000,000 plan of aid for expansion and construction of medical schools has been signed by President John F. Kennedy. The AMA NEWS observes that the law also contains a "controversial provision for federal loans to medical students."

Opposing the loan program at the Senate was Senator Barry Goldwater (R., Arizona). His proposal of eliminating the loan paragraph as unnecessary in view of the American Medical Association's loan plan was rejected.

The Senate also turned down a civil rights amendment and a proposal to forgive part of the loan repayments to physicians, osteopaths and dentists who practice in shortage areas.

The House cleared an identical bill.

Although only a three-year authorization has been accomplished, the Congress has indicated that the plan should last for ten years as originally endorsed by the supporters of the bill.

AMA describes the new law as follows:

The federal government will put up $175 million over a three-year period for construction, replacement or rehabilitation of accredited public or nonprofit schools for physicians, dentists, pharmacists, optometrists, podiatrists, nurses and professional public health personnel. The grant could not exceed two-thirds of the cost of construction.

To advise the government in carrying out the program and in making regulations, the bill establishes an 18-man National Advisory Council on Education for Health Professions consisting of the U.S. Public Health Service surgeon general who would be chairman and the commissioner of education, and 16 members appointed by the secretary of health, education and welfare. Four of the appointed members would be from the public and 12 would be from leading authorities in the field of higher education, at least eight of whom are concerned with training in medicine, dentistry, osteopathy, pharmacy, optometry, podiatry, nursing, or public health professions.

The bill authorizes a loan program, patterned after the National Defense Education Act for students in schools of medicine, dentistry or osteopathy.

LOAN LIMITS: Loans could not exceed $2,000 for a student in any academic year. Loans would be repayable over a 10-year period which would begin three years after the student ceases to pursue a fulltime course of study at a medical school. The unpaid balance of the loan would bear 3% interest per year or the going federal rate for obligations having a 15 year or more maturity, whichever is higher. To carry out the loan program, the bill authorizes $5.1 million for this fiscal year, $10.2 million for fiscal 1965, $15.4 million for fiscal 1966, and such sums for the fiscal years 1967, 1968, and 1969 as may be necessary.

First Federal LL Branch '64

First Federal Savings and Loan Association will open a branch in Loma Linda in the first part of 1964, a spokesman of the association said this week.

Fully staffed offices at Central and Anderson streets will provide Loma Linda residents with the conveniences of all the services which First Federal's San Bernardino and Barstow offices offer, according to Joseph W. Snyder, association president.

He said, "We at First Federal are looking forward to a long and friendly association with the people of Loma Linda as our staff becomes an integral part of the community and its activities."

Snyder pointed out that "the steady growth of this community has prompted the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to recognize that a need exists in Loma Linda."

Office Outlines Recruiting Rules for Students, Agencies

(Editor's Note: The recruiting process is a highly technical and involved activity and needs to be clearly defined. With this in mind, Carl Sundin, director of the University placement service has written a series of articles for University SCOPE. In these he will deal with principles and practices of the recruiting process.)

BY CARL SUNDIN

It is in the best interest of students, the University and those who seek the services of the graduates, that commitments for practice plans be made with an understanding of the most important facts.

Therefore, the recruiting of Loma Linda University students for practice in various areas of United States as well as in Canada and overseas mission service should be carried out to serve the following objectives:

1. To promote the area involved in such a way as to give a fair idea of what the area in question is like and to represent the professional needs as they truly exist both in the respective community and in the church or mission.

2. To develop in the student a high standard of professional integrity and a concept of Christian service to his fellow men and the church.

3. To develop in the student an attitude of personal responsibility in his commitments, toward his career as well as toward those who have assisted him in obtaining his education.

Responsibilities of Recruiting Organizations

A recruiting organization would be defined as any of the following: church organizations, local and union conferences, overseas divisions, General Conference secretarial and medical departments, institutions—educational and medical, governmental agencies, and industrial companies.

1. The recruiting organization should contact the University Placement Service well in advance regarding interview dates. Any change in plans should be made known promptly to the Placement office.

2. The recruiting organization should supply factual material to give students as true a picture as possible of opportunities in its area. Since it is not possible to allow more than one on-campus contact by each recruiting organization each year, the information should be given in a well-planned manner.

3. It is well the recruiting organizations exercise scrupulous care to avoid undue demands on the time of the faculty members and students in order to minimize as much as possible the disruption of class schedules. In no event should anyone, even alumni, presume to enter classrooms or laboratories to make contact with students.

4. Any recruiting agent who would wish to make contact with a specific person at the time of his interview visit may communicate this desire to the individual by mail prior to his arrival on campus, but he must also notify the Placement Office so that the interview may be fitted into its interview schedule.

5. Financial commitments should be carefully discussed so that all may understand fully what has been promised. In no case should promises or commitments be made that would in any way violate the general policies in vogue.

6. The interviewer should be punctual and available during the whole time designated for this purpose. He should notify the Placement Office when he will arrive as well as his expected departure time. Every effort should be made to avoid last-minute cancellations.

7. The interviewer should carefully follow the interview-time schedule agreed upon with the Placement Office.

8. Immediately following the interview, the recruiter should communicate with the student and the Placement Office concerning the outcome of the interview.

9. The recruiter should give the student reasonable time to consider his offer and in no case should the student be pressured into making a decision.

10. When travel expenses are discussed, the recruiter should avoid referring to the trip as "vacation time." Invitations to visit the area of the recruiting organization should be made on an individual basis.

Elaborate entertaining and "overselling" usually leads to misunderstandings and difficulties later on.

11. The student should, under no circumstances, be offered special payments, gifts, bonuses or other inducements, nor should the recruiter compensate or favor a third party to prevail upon the student to accept the offer.

12. The recruiting organization should keep the University Placement Service informed concerning its interests in particular students and its negotiations with them.

13. When a student has committed himself to a particular organization, it will be considered highly unethical and irresponsible to belabor him and make him switch over to another organization.

14. Contacts and activities in recruitment should at all times and under all circumstances be conducted in harmony with the spirit of the policy governing these activities.

Private Developer Eyes $750,000 Office Plan

A Newport Beach developer presented plans last week for a $750,000 professional building near the projected Loma Linda Medical Center. John A. Gale, the developer, said the construction will probably begin in January.

According to the plans, the building will contain three floors with a garden-type restaurant on the third floor and parking below the building. The building will be 30,000 square feet. It will have a glass front, concrete walls and a tilt-up construction. Gale is also developing a 25-house tract in northeast Loma Linda. He says he plans to start construction of a 12-unit apartment building at Benton Street and Barton Road.

A Tahitian type village with nearly 50 units is also on the planning board for a tract near Prospect Avenue and Anderson Street.

SCOPE Will Include News from Advertisers

University SCOPE this week began calling on area merchants and professional people to offer advertising space on these pages. In establishing advertising policies, the editors state that advertising is an important part of the news and that services and products available in this area should be reported in a professional, dignified and responsible manner.

The University SCOPE will limit advertising space to 35 percent of its total pages in an attempt to hold down the expenses of publishing the newspaper and at the same time present benefits to the readers and the advertisers alike.

Several of those who were contacted by the SCOPE representative for future advertising expressed satisfaction with the publishers' decision on distribution of the paper. According to this, the SCOPE will be presented free only for a short time.

A special offer of a third of the regular price of $3.00 makes it possible for readers other than affiliates to receive the University weekly for only $1.00 per year or $3.00 for two years.

Representing SCOPE to the advertisers is Miss Gwen Moddrell, a La Sierra College senior English major with interest in writing, art and newspaper work. A resident of Loma Linda, she will seek to aid the advertiser in planning with him his promotional programs.

Sophomores' Dental Fund Dwindles as 9 Get Loans

Only five months after the School of Dentistry Class of 1963 set up a revolving loan fund for sophomore dental students, the fund is dry, reports Viola Lutz, executive secretary for the SD Alumni Association.

She said the Class of 1963 set up a fund of $500 as a guarantee against which $5000 could be borrowed by sophomore dental students. The class anticipated that the fund would be increased from time to time, making it possible to aid those students who have few opportunities to borrow money.

Nine loans have been processed thus far, and the tenth application is in the process at the Security First National Bank here. The student loan office screens loan applications, said Mrs. Lutz.

She added that the sophomores could use many times the available funds and scholarships for their study here.

Stuart Sevenser Becomes Manager of Remodeled Automotive Service

Stuart (Stu) Sevenser recently became manager of the former Loma Linda Automotive Service located at the east corner of Highway 99 and Anderson Street.

Immediate plans for Sevenser Automotive, says Mr. Sevenser, include a new building for body work and new modern paint room.

Changes already in effect are an airconditioned waiting room, a remodeled office, two new stock rooms and a new body shop.

Alumnus Lectures on Disease Control Here

Walter B. Quisenberry, SM '41, visited the Loma Linda University campus last week to lecture on chronic disease and its control.

Dr. Quisenberry has served the Department of Health, in Honolulu, Hawaii, for 16 years and is now deputy director of health there. He has been director of the division of preventive medicine, which deals among other things with chronic disease control.

For four years, Dr. Quisenberry was director for the Hawaiian division of the American Cancer Society, and has done research in epidemiological cancer. He has among other places presented results of his studies in Australia and Moscow.

U Church Pastor Directs Five-Day Plan for Smokers

Loma Linda University Church Pastor Charles W. Teel served as the San Bernardino county director of a five-day quit smoking plan in Hollywood last week. Pastors from southern California churches met at the Hollywood church for five days of training.

The pastor said that the therapeutic sessions for the public started Sunday night for the public at the Hollywood high school. Assisting Pastor Teel in working with would-be non-smokers in San Bernardino county are Pastors Ben Hassenpflug and R. D. Spear.

Loma Linda University physicians assisted in the educational and therapeutic sessions. They were Drs. Walter Roberts, Raymond Kraft and Lester Loneragan.

Leading out in the pastoral training sessions as well as in the program for victims of the tobacco habit were Dr. J. Wayne McFarland and Elder Elman Folkenberg.
